Your Guide to the Putin-Trump "Secret."

or hold on a minute let me get this straight

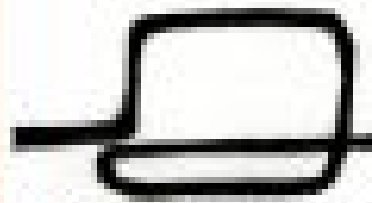

In early 2017, Congress passed sanctions against Russia's election attack. Trump was "reportedly apoplectic" and "lobbied to weaken them." Since their passage, he has "failed to enforce the sanctions as directed."

In July 2017, Trump announced that he and Putin had formed a Cyber Security unit to block election meddling.

This past May, the House eliminated its top cybersecurity position - effectively removing the "cap from the hat."

late 2018 Trump states Russia should be allowed to regain the G7 "from which it had been expelled after invading the Ukraine and setting Crimea."

In private remarks, Trump implied French president

Emmanuel Macron to leave the European Union, promising a better deal. "Macron's main goals are to undo the EU & NATO."

"Last summer, Putin suggested to Trump that the US stop its joint military exercises with South Korea." Trump's advisors initially talked him out of it.

Then without warning, he offered it up in negotiations with Kim Jong-un."

Mike Romney was Trump's only choice for Secretary of State. Putin disagreed and "used unspecified channels" to influence the decision."

"Shortly before Trump's inauguration, Israeli intelligence officials gathered at US headquarters, where they were told something astonishing."

"Russia, the agency believed, had 'leverage of pressure' over the incoming president. They advised the Israelis to consider the possibility that Trump might pass their secrets on to Russia. The Israelis declined the offer to go colludoh."

Also, could believe that the world's most powerful country was about to hand its presidency to a Russian dupe? That the US government had, essentially, taken?"
